A Living Legacy

WARD VILLAGE

*“Study the past
if you would define the future.”*

Confucius

At Ward Village, each detail has been carefully curated, from our public spaces, retail offerings, landscaping, public art, and the design of each of our residential buildings. One of the things that makes Ward Village unique is that each building has its own distinct personality and defining attributes.

With our seventh building, Victoria Place, located on the front row of O’ahu’s South Shore, we looked into the past of our storied land to create something that we believe will resonate long into the future. By building on the spirit of Victoria Ward, a pioneer of the community, and on the rich history of great Hawaiian homes, our aspiration is to create an effortlessly refined living experience that brings the best of the estate lifestyle into a vibrant urban environment, allowing residents to live far beyond the four walls of their home – both within the building and while enjoying Ward Village’s unmatched restaurants, shops, and experiences.

Featuring a collection of amenities that surpasses those found in some of Honolulu’s most esteemed private clubs, Victoria Place represents our vision to foster a new kind of luxury lifestyle. One that allows residents to host friends and family in spaces inspired by the traditional estate lifestyle, while at the same time providing all the convenience and benefits of living in Ward Village.

We hope that our passion and commitment in creating these homes will come through as you learn more about our living legacy to Victoria Ward.

VICTORIA PLACE

1100 ALA MOANA

Remaking a special place requires a unique blend of boldness towards the future and a respect of what came before. That is what Victoria Ward achieved when she converted this rural parcel of land into her abundant family estate. Now more than a century later, that legacy lives on at Victoria Place, a collection of homes that bears her name out of a deep respect and gratitude for her vision.

With great intention, we carry forward the ideas of a connection and love for the land, gracious island living, and hospitality with family at the heart. Whether greeting the dawn at the Sunrise Pool, or creating memories with loved ones on the Sunset Lānai, be ushered into harmonious natural living that continues this historic legacy.

TRADITIONAL HAWAIIAN PROVERB

A PLACE BY NAME AND NATURE

Victoria Place takes inspiration from Victoria Ward's profound love of the land. Embracing Mālama 'Āina, the idea of caring for and nurturing the land, she oversaw the restoration of Hawaiian fishponds, as well as the planting of over 6,000 coconut trees in the Ala Moana area, laying the foundation for her home.

ISLAND HOSPITALITY AT ITS FINEST

Victoria Ward was a gracious host who celebrated local culture by opening her “Old Plantation” home to Hawaiian music, traditional gatherings, and the continued practice of Hawaiian crafts and language.

Keeping her legacy of hospitality at the heart of Victoria Place, expansive gathering spaces and the welcoming Lauhala Pool House have been designed for any occasion, simple or grand.
